The American War.

The leading article in the Times of the 23rd June, is probably one of the ablest written articles which has ever appeared in that paper, on the American question.

We extract the following for the benefit of our country readers:—

Let us spread a map of the Southern States of America before us and splash with red the spots where men of the same tongue are now engaged in mutual slaughter. We may begin with Harrisonburg in the North West of Virginia, not a very long way from the Banks of the Potomac, and but a short railway run from Washington. Thence General Fremont reports a sanguinary disaster, wherein the loss was heavy on both sides and the Federal loss was very great, among the officers. Here is our first red blot, close up upon the boundary line, showing the rebel spirit active and fatal even near the home of the Northern power. About a hundred miles to the South East, across the mountains, we may mark with another red blotch the city of Richmond, whence General McClellan reports that in the recent battle of Fair Oaks he has sustained a loss in killed, wounded, and missing of 5,739 men. A wound in such heats as now prevail but too certainly means death, and if we throw in an estimate of the Confederate loss we must calculate at least 5,000 corpses as the result of that useless battle. The crop in that spot is yet rank, and death still wields his sickle there. Down the James river, where the gunboats and iron clad ships are striving with indecided success to pass the fort, the carnage continues, with perhaps unmitigated vigour, and all that region must be tinted with a reddish hue. If we look away westward, over the vast territories of Kentucky and Tennessee it is all a volcano [illegible] where [illegible] are frequently occurring [illegible] where peace exists [illegible] the peace [illegible] the pressure of an [illegible] force. On the borders of Tennessee [illegible] there are 200, [illegible] or resisting [illegible] [illegible] of that human [illegible] The frame which is destroyed by a cannon shot, a bursting shell, or a Minié bullet passes to dissolution with a single pang. The human creature who is torn by a sword or bayonet wound writhes upon the ground in the delirium of the supervening fever, but passes out of existence after a short agony. But where one dies from lead or steel ten die of wasting disease.

Whatever may be the result, it is plain that this war has now reached a point at which it is a scandal to humanity. It has become a war of extermination. Utter destruction may be possible, or even imminent, but submission is as far off as ever. The planters are still retreating and taking their negroes with them. Memphis was found with all its cotton in flames and all its sugar destroyed. The Confederates are gathered for another fight for Richmond; and even after another defeat a retreat into Texas seems to be still on the cards. Persons who listen to the excited railers on either side may think that there is no alternative but to let this flood of bloodshed pass over the land; but at this calm distance we may perhaps more wisely calculate that such voices do not represent the mind of the American people. Both parties must by this time be in their hearts tired of this strife. There has been blood enough shed, fortunes enough made, losses enough suffered, and wrong enough inflicted and endured. The opportunity must be either present or at hand when some potent American voice prudently calling "Peace," may awaken an universal echo.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

Austria.

After long debates and despite the opposition of the Ministers, the Austrian Chamber of Deputies has adopted the propositions of the Commission relative to the War Budget. The first of these propositions are as follows:—"Considering that the interests of the State and a wise policy imperiously demand that we should maintain [illegible], a state which requires a much smaller effective than that set down for the service of 1862; considering the diminution of the expense of the army which has already taken place or is being achieved, the military budget for the year 1862 is reduced to 1[illegible] florins. The [illegible] will contribute to this 121,605,[illegible] florins, and the rest is to be provided by the revenues of the military administration." By a second motion the Chamber has [illegible] that the Government may [illegible] as soon as possible, through diplomatic means, in definitively settling Italian affairs, so far as they relate to Austria, so as to render unnecessary a great concentration of troops in the Lombardo Venetian Kingdom and the neighbouring provinces. The expenses of the support of the Modenese troops are voted on the condition that they replace Austrian troops, and, at the same time the Chamber expresses [illegible] before the [illegible] the Government will settle the normal state of things respecting these troops." In the following sitting the Chamber fixed the nominal Budget of the army in time of peace at 92,000,000 florins. The discussion on the army Budget generally was of a very animated character.

Denmark.

Fredensborg, June 15th.—The King of Denmark, surrounded by the Princes, Ministers, and the whole Court, received the students from Sweden today. His Majesty afterwards appeared at the banquet given to the students, and said to the assembly—"Should you be willing I will send the following message to the King of Sweden:—A thousand subjects now bless you in my house. This is communicated to you by your friend and brother, Frederick."

General Summary.

The policy of the Confederate Generals is, it appears, to offer every obstacle to the advance of the Federals but still to retreat steadily southward. Though the last accounts do not confirm the report of the dismissal of Butler for his infamous proclamation respecting the New Orleans ladies. General Shepley has been appointed to the immediate military command of that city, but he is to be subordinate to Butler, who commands the whole department of the Gulf.

The Montreal True Witness cautions parties intending to emigrate not to be led astray by an advertisement from Mr. Carlton, the Canadian Government Emigration Agent, promising immediate employment and high wages to certain classes of mechanics and labourers, boys and girls, which statement it asserts is either altogether false or grossly exaggerated, alleging that the labour market in Canada is either fully stocked or glutted, and that plenty of each class named can be got in Canada who would be glad to get work at any reasonable wages. And that if Mr. Carlton applies to the Presidents of the St. Vincent de Paul Societies, they will be very happy to hear from him on the subject.

—A fearful conflagration has destroyed about a third of St. Petersburg. A revolution appears to be on the eve of breaking out, and the chess clubs and reading-rooms have been closed to prevent the dissemination of reports and revolutionary publications. A military revolt is apprehended; and the conflagration is supposed to be the work of incendiaries. An imperial decree has been issued, authorising Governors of Provinces to proclaim martial law, should incendiarism break out. Rapine, murder, incendiarism, and destruction of the crops are to be punished with death.

—On Wednesday, the Special Commission in Limerick, was adjourned to the 1st of next month, as it is said the government has "good reasons" for not at present sending bills before the Grand Jury against the Dalaneys. Thomas Beckham was found guilty, and sentenced to be hung on the 16th of June, the day of the murder of Mr Fitzgerald, being the 15th of May.

—On Wednesday morning, Baron Deasy passed the sentence of death on him. No sympathy was expressed by the people when Beckham was removed. John Punch was then indicted for writing a threatening letter to Mr. Langley. Messrs. Coffey and Doyle were assigned for the defence. Baron Deasy charged the jury and after forty minutes they returned with a verdict of guilty. Baron Deasy then sentenced him to four years penal servitude. The Commission opened at Clonmel on Friday, where there are five persons for trial, one for the murder of Mr. Tincknill, one for the murder of Maguire, one for the poisoning case, and two for malicious burning. On Wednesday evening 58 magistrates of the county of Limerick held a meeting in the Grand Jury Room, Col. Vandeleur in the chair, for the purpose of asking the government to proclaim the county so far as [illegible] persons." Sir Vere de Vere and five other magistrates opposed the motion, but fifty-two were in favour of it.

China.

The ollowing is rom the China Mail [Hong Kong, April 2?]:—

During the past fortnight, and since we last wrote the rebels in the neighbourhood of Shanghai have been twice attacked by the combined English and French forces, assisted by the force of drilled Chinese, under Ward, who had been made a military mandarin [with a light blue button worn by imperial officers of the third class] in consequence of an order from the capital.

After the defeat at Wong-ka-dza, the Chinese troops under Ward, or, as we may now call him, General Ward moved, as then stated, in the direction of a different stockade, with a view of still further completing the day's work.
